“Artificial intelligence (AI) has the potential to transform all aspects of our society. But the ability to apply this technology in a robust way to our entitlement programs, especially the program integrity and beneficiary eligibility controls, could be truly breath taking. The membership of the United Council on Welfare Fraud (UCOWF) applauds the Administration’s prioritization of this technology and shares President Trump’s hope that Congress will swiftly act to adopt his framework. However, like all tools, it is UCOWF’s hope that in addition to elevating this new technology, Congress and the Administration will pair AI with the political will to ensure that the application and enforcement of robust program integrity and beneficiary eligibility programming remain a priority for the foreseeable future.”

UCOWF is the only national professional organization solely focused on the prevention, detection, prosecution, and recovery of fraud in government public assistance programs. Our members are the boots on the ground, the first responders to these issues – from the county, state, and federal levels. For over half a century, UCOWF has remained dedicated to its mission to improve professional investigation outcomes and processes including our Certified Welfare Fraud Investigator certification/accreditation.
